DANIELSON

Tuesday was entry day for Brooklyn fair—the day when fair officials work at top speed in order that the show may be ready for the crowds that will appear on the opening day.

Setting the fair ready is a big job, although that may not be apparent or of interest to the thousands who come each year to view the exhibits. This year was no exception to the rule and the force at the secretary's office was kept on the jump recording entries and seeing that everything was put in orderly arrangement.

It was indicated late Tuesday afternoon that Brooklyn fair is going to be well worth while this year. It has attracted entries from various towns of the county. The cattle show will be very good as also will be the display of vegetables and fruits, products of the dairy and of the housewives' art. The range section will be of special interest.

From all points of the compass the midway men put in their appearance Tuesday and began erecting their stands and show tents.

Effort that has been underway for weeks to make the fair attractive were showing productive results Tuesday.

Of the 100 pheasants that arrived here Tuesday morning from the state game farm at Madison all were in first class condition excepting one—a bird that had been injured and died while en route to Danielson.

The consignment was forwarded in three large shipping cases, later taken out in three automobiles and the birds released at various points within three or four miles of Danielson. The birds were about half-grown, but lively and in good condition and in about every instance began feeding immediately upon release. Lots of 5 to 15 were released at a time, in order that the shipment might be scattered over a wide area.

Men who are familiar with pheasants and their habits had charge of the releasing and selected only ideal places where food the birds like are plentiful and where cover is provided.

Another heavy frost Tuesday morning came as a reminder that the fuel problem will soon become more pressing. Observers state that practically no hard coal is yet moving over the railroad line through Danielson, unless it is going through on night trains. Probably well under 50 percent of the homes in Danielson would be listed as having any supply of coal at all, and those who are without coal have made up their minds that they will be fortunate if they get as much as a sack at a time during the coming cold weather season.

At Goodspeed mills and at the Connecticut mills, employees have been notified that a wage increase will become effective October 3. As has been the case of other mills in this territory where notices of the coming advance have been given, but it is generally understood that the new wage scale will be approximately the same as was in force up to January of this year. The mills herein mentioned are manufacturers of the fur fabric.

Special Deputy William J. Davis of the commission on domestic animals continued to bring cases for prosecution in connection with violations of the dog laws in Canterbury during Tuesday. Among the interesting cases were those in which a woman was charged with having registered a female dog as a spayed animal. A fine was imposed in this case. Mr. Davis also continued his activities in today heretofore until violators of the law have been prosecuted and their dogs registered.

Scores of motorists have galled up short in Danielson, during the last few days, upon being told sharp blast of what has seemed to be a police whistle only to find some grinning youngster thoroughly enjoying himself over having "foaked" the officer. It is believed that an officer was halting him. A cheap device that whistles is being distributed heretofore and every kid that comes in possession of it becomes a potential traffic officer, once travel over the new highway reaches what may be considered as normal.

Remember the Pelletts bus and touring car service from Danielson to the Brooklyn fair today and Thursday. Get buses at Danielson Center, touring cars at the Pellett building, Railroad square—adv.

Bootleggers who hope to do a profitable business at the fair grounds will do well to carefully guard their operations. The grounds and approaches will be thoroughly patrolled, and warning need not be given that heavy penalties await those who engage in selling intoxicating liquors. Caught at it. State police as well as other officers will be on duty in and about the grounds.

Radio fans here declare they have been getting splendid results with their sets since the weather has turned a bit cooler and cleared up much of the static trouble with which they have had to contend during the hot weather period. "Though it is a little better, having been in progress through territory heretofore. At this evening's meeting of McGregor Woman's Relief corps, plans will be discussed for the annual inspection, scheduled for November 1.

The building at fire headquarters is especially in readiness for the coming of the new motor-driven hook and ladder truck which is expected within a week or so. With the arrival of this piece of apparatus the department will have the best equipment in its history. With the installation of the water works, back in the 80's, the old hand pump was relegated to the retired list and hand reel hose carts were substituted. When the motor-driven hook and ladder truck was installed it was thought the scene of perfection had been reached. Livery stables in time gave place to garages and soon it was impossible for the city to hire horses to haul fire apparatus to a fire. Then came the first motor-driven hook and ladder truck. This was followed by a second. Horses were still available to draw the hook and ladder truck and this was retained. About two years ago, notice was given the city that horses would not be long furnished. Draw the ladder truck. Then city officials attempted to have the voters appropriate a sufficient sum to buy a motor-driven hook and ladder truck. On account of conditions inside and outside of the department at that time the appropriation was twice voted down. Since the new administration came in, matters have been adjusted and harmony brought about and at the third vote the appropriation was made. The new truck of the latest type has been ordered for some months and is due to arrive in a short time. Since the city received notice that horses would not be furnished, the department has been without available ladders at fire. Due to this there has been at least one loss occasioned large enough to pay for a truck and it has only been by good fortune that more serious losses have not occurred, firemen being unable to reach roofs or second or third stories until from somewhere ladders were borrowed.

When the new truck arrives the department's apparatus will consist of complete motor equipment, including truck No. 1, at fire headquarters on Union street; truck No. 2, at the Smith street fire station, and the hook and ladder truck at fire headquarters. The whole apparatus is so located as to be able to reach any point in the city in a very short time. Whether or not the bringing of the department to this high standard will have any effect on insurance rates in the city remains to be seen but it has been estimated that it will have such effect.

Judge George E. Hinman, of the superior court, has handed down a decision setting aside the will of Thomas Pellett, of Putnam, on the ground that at the time the will was executed the testator was not of sufficient mind to have testamentary capacity. By the setting aside of the will the two daughters of the testator will realize from his estate.

The will was executed in 1901. After making two small bequests to sisters of the testator, the residue of the estate, valued at about $10,000 was left with instructions that the whole amount be used to erect a monument to testator in Abington cemetery.

The daughters, Mrs. Mary A. Carpenter and Mrs. F. H. Durie, appealed from the probate court and the case was tried at Putnam last Friday. Witnesses testified to knowing Mr. Pellett for 30 to 40 years and all expressed the opinion that he was of sufficient intelligence to understand the effect of making a will or to have in mind the nature and extent of his property.

Lewis F. Battey, executor of the will, was represented by Attorney Charles L. Torrey and the appellants by attorneys J. F. Carpenter and A. E. Macdonald. Miss Ruth Child, daughter of Mrs. Annie Child, returned Monday to Mt. Holyoke college, where she is to be an instructor in the department of English.

For the first time in two seasons, a road attraction played at the Bradley theater Monday night. Irene, the popular musical comedy, pleased an audience that completely filled the theater. The company was good, played with considerable vigor, and seemed to enjoy the evening fully as much as did the audience. The production was well staged, and the costumes were fresh and attractive. Dale Winter, who played the title role, received immense applause for her singing and dancing numbers. The company carried its own orchestra which added to the success of the evening.

Miss Hazel Converse, daughter of Henry L. Converse, left Putnam Tuesday for New London where she is to be a student at Connecticut college. Max Cohen, who for a number of years has conducted a Main street shoe store, died at his home Tuesday morning, following a surgical operation. The body was taken Tuesday afternoon to the Hebrew synagogue where a service was held, after which it was conveyed to Norwich for burial in the Hebrew cemetery at Brooklyn.

According to Captain of Police Delage standing on the sidewalk by young man after the Brooklyn theatre performance last night has got to stop. Numerous complaints have come to the police relative to this line of cigarette smokers who make passage difficult and disagreeable. Many of the young men light cigarettes as soon as they alight and then, when they are finished are careless how they throw the butts away. The police look upon the situation as more or less of a fire hazard and say that they are going to stop the custom.

Frank B. Young, a minor, and George Pellett were indicted for the murder of Fred Timmes of New Bedford who came to live in Plainfield, being an employee of the Lawton Mills. The latter is recovering from illness.

D. Young, his father, have brought civil actions the former claiming $1,000 damages and the latter $750 damages, against Joseph S. Shepard and his wife, Harriet Shepard, for injuries to the boy which, it is alleged, grew out of his being kept by a dog kept and harbored by defendants.

The writs alleged that on the 22nd of September the plaintiff, Frank B. Young, about the age of five years, called at the residence of the defendants in the village of South Woodstock to see a playmate, a child of defendants; and as he was leaving the premises and was upon the public highway a dog owned and kept by defendants jumped upon him, knocking him down and biting him in the head, neck, shoulders and arms. By reason of said injuries, it is alleged, plaintiff suffered an attack of lockjaw and was confined to a hospital for several weeks, and that he received permanent injuries.

The father, Mr. Young, seeks to recover for money expended for medical care and hospital bills paid for his son.

The cases assigned for trial before Judge George E. Hinman of the superior court Tuesday were settled out of court and there was no session held. Today (Wednesday) one case will be tried to the court. The jury has been summoned for next week.

From present indications, Anselm Mayotte Post, American Legion, will realize about $1500 from the carnival season of the fall.

PLAINFIELD

Miss Ruth Elias Ingalls and Frank Gilbert Pellett were united in marriage Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's father, John B. Ingalls, Rev. William C. Prentiss, pastor of the First Congregational church, officiating. The bride, Miss Margaret B. Ingalls, and the best man were a brother of the bride, George D. Ingalls. The bride was dressed in blue canton crepe and the bridesmaid wore a dress of blue serge. The bride carried a bouquet of white asters, the maid of honor carrying white and pink asters. There were many useful and beautiful presents. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Pellett will reside with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Pellett, of Westminster.

At the First Congregational church on Sunday, Mr. Samuel Warner had charge of arranging the decorations. At the morning service there were several visitors from out of town. At the evening service, Miss Esther Wilson sang a solo which was greatly appreciated.

A farewell reception was tendered Prof. Hermon C. Cooper Friday evening by his Bible class of young men. The gathering was held in the vestry of the First Congregational church and the members of Dr. Williams' Bible class were invited. When Mr. Cooper returned from an automobile trip to New Jersey he found a large number of men gathered to meet him and a very pleasant evening was spent, music rendered by George Kraus, drummer; Claude Lethers, saxophone and Harold Barstow, piano. The pastor, Rev. William C. Prentiss, paid a tribute to Mr. Cooper for his splendid service and fine loyalty in the church, expressing the conviction that every one regretted the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Cooper who would be greatly missed both in the church and the community. Mr. Prentiss then introduced Clarence Windsor, chairman of the committee in charge, who expressed the appreciation of the class for Mr. Cooper's able leadership, and then presented Mr. Cooper as a gift from the class a pair of Thermos bottles in a leather case. Mr. Cooper accepted the gift with apt words of appreciation for the honor and kindness manifested by his friends. Others who spoke of the esteem in which Mr. Cooper and his family were held in the community were Rev. Mr. Hall, Dr. William Wilson and Cecil L. Butler. Ice cream and cake were served. The committee in charge was Clarence Windsor, George Ingalls and Marden Prentiss.

Hermon C. Chapman, president of the Windham County Agricultural society is busy making final arrangements for the Brooklyn fair.

Cecil L. Butler, principal of the grammar school, reports a large attendance this fall. One new teacher has been added, Miss Nellie McGovern, who has charge of Division A of the first grade.

Henry Dorrance is attending the Eastern State Exposition at Springfield, this week, being in charge of a large and fine exhibit of the products of the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' association.

Prof. and Mrs. Sam Wilson of Eugene, Oregon, are spending their vacation with Mr. Warner's parents, Dr. and William E. Wilson.

Columbus Smith of Norwich was a week and visitor at the home of Fred Lyon. The latter is recovering from illness.

Fred Timmes of New Bedford has come to live in Plainfield, being an employee of the Lawton Mills.

John Ingalls and son, William, are spending their vacation among friends in Fall River.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Congregational church is planning for the first supper of the season.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Sale on Treadway Avenue.
Real Estate Broker John A. Moran has sold for Matthew F. Sheridan the modern 7-room cottage on Treadway avenue. The new owner, William E. Burns, will occupy the property as his home.

Big Keith Vanderville at Broadway Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

A very fine and big programme is promised to the patrons of the Broadway theatre for the last half of this week. The five acts of B. F. Keith Vanderville consist of Huster-Randal & Co., an excellent company consisting of four people who offer a song and dance revue.

Shaw and Preston offer a comedy act called "We've Got Another One".

Frank Cornell & Co. appear in a full stage comedy variety offering which promises to beat any comedy act yet seen. Frank Work & Co. offer an acrobatic sketch called "A Clock in the Morning". That Rascal, Loney Haskell, has again been secured for the Norwich theatres. Those who saw him last year at the Strand theatre will easily recall his name. He is termed the Convincing Conventioneer, and rightly so.

My Lady Friends, a First National attraction starring Mr. and Mrs. Carter De Haven, is coming to the Broadway theatre on Thursday. It is described as a farce comedy with so many funny situations that the spectators are kept roaring from start to finish.

Strand Theatre Today.
Star of "Blood and Sand" trained for two months by celebrated Spanish bull fighter.

Member of a famous bull-fighting family, himself the conqueror of two scores "toros", Rafael Palomar was chosen as trainer of Rodolph Valentino for the ten-actor scenes required of the Paramount star in "Blood and Sand." A French Niblo production made from the notable Vicente Blasco Ibañez novel of the same name.

That "Blood and Sand" might be correct in every respect, Palomar not only supervised the dressing of the ten-actor scenes, but taught him every step of the intricate evolutions which mark the graceful sword and cape play of a matador. Although Valentino is a trained dancer, he found even more difficult than tango or maxixe the complicated steps Palomar taught him for two solid months. And accuracy was demanded in every detail of the bull fight, there's only one mistake to be made, and when that occurs, the undertaker has his inling.

Stefan Warner won the training assignment because of his twelve years as a bull-fighter in Madrid, Seville, Cadiz, Mexico City, Guadalajara, and other Spanish and Spanish-American cities. He is the brother of Jose and Francisco Palomar, equally famous as favorites of Spanish bull ring audiences.

The hiring of Palomar was but a part of the plan to make "Blood and Sand," which comes to the Strand theatre commencing today, correct in every detail. The story, however, tells of the life of Juan Belmonte, a bullfighter, rather than of bull-fighting. All of the color of the Spanish national sport is retained, minus the features not acceptable to American audiences.

Lila Lee and Nita Naldi, are featured players of the cast which is made up of screen artists of distinctive character type. These include among others, Walter Long, George Fenn, Robert, Ralph, Lee White, Marie Martin and others.

A Harold Lloyd comedy and a Selznick News is also shown.

Broad Theatre.
A very spectacular punch is promised in the western photoplay coming to the Broad theatre today and Thursday, "Man to Man."

It is a Universal-Jewel production of the highest type, said to be elaborately staged, and certainly if they used five stunts and a head of cattle in one stampee scene it must be.

Stuart Patton directed the picture. He also handled the megaphone in the making of "Confession of a Thief" and "Jewel success which has gained a new army of fans for Fredella Dean.

Jackson Gregory's novel of the West and the Rev. J. S. Seals was adapted to the screen by George C. Hull. It embodies virile elements of masculine characterization for the star, who impersonates a derelict human in the dives of Tinseltown, called home by the death of his father, consequent to a series of thrilling adventures and his inheritance of a large Arizona ranch.

Lillian Rich has the leading feminine role, while Harold Goodwin, Alfred Allen, Charles B. Clary, and Robert, Ralph, Lee White, Marie Martin and others.

Other pictures on the bill include "Movie Chats," and an Educational comedy.

Hill Climbing Contest.
The Willis Sainte Claire car has just performed a hill climbing test never before accomplished by any other automobile—it has climbed Logtown Hill at Van Buren, Arkansas, in high gear.

When it is considered that hundreds of attempts to climb this hill in recent years have been made by practically all makes of cars, many with multi-cylinder motors and high power, the performance of the Willis Sainte Claire becomes all the more spectacular.

The Logtown is one of the longest and steepest hills of the southwest and many an aspiring driver has dropped by the wayside in attempts to mount the hill in high.

The record recently set was established by C. E. Fauthhaber, Little Rock, Arkansas, who drove a Buick, and Company. The hill was climbed in 11.5 seconds. The car, driven by Mr. Fauthhaber, only made the entire ascent in high gear but went over the top at a speed of more than ten miles an hour.

The test came as a result of a visit by Mr. Fauthhaber to Fort Smith where he happened to meet Mr. Harding and where he offered to demonstrate to the car owner hill climbing ability which the owner did not know his car possessed.

The car, driven by Mr. Fauthhaber, only made the entire ascent in high gear but went over the top at a speed of more than ten miles an hour.
